BOARD OF TRADE GETS A GRANT

City Council Gave $5000 Toward the Year's Work at Last Night's Meeting

At the council meeting last night a committee representing the board of trade, and consisting of Messrs. A. T. Cushing, F. T. Fisher and John A. McDougall, presented the request by the board for a grant to the amount of $5,000 to assist them in carrying out the work of the year. The request was granted by the unanimous vote of the council.

A. T. Cushing, as president of the board, headed the delegation. He stated that last year they had come to the council with a request for $2,500, which was granted, and if the members of the council have read last year's report they would, he thought, consider that the money was well spent. The city is now reaping, and will continue to reap, the reward of this expenditure. This year they were asking for a larger grant, not only because there was larger and more important work to be done.

Going over the items of expenditure which they proposed to make, Mr. Cushing said that last year they had printed a pamphlet, of which an 8,000 issue had been circulated, but that the circulation, it had been found, was not nearly large enough. The cost in that connection last year was $664. This year they proposed to get out a larger and better pamphlet and a larger edition.

The board proposes to spend $300 this year on newspaper advertising. Mr. Cushing pointed out that while some say that the city is sufficiently advertised already, that is many towns and states in the west are paying out large sums for advertising for the purpose of attracting settlers. It was no time for Edmonton to discontinue advertising. The board was making a very careful selection of the papers in which to advertise, and they thought that the sum of $300 was small enough if good results were to be obtained.

On immigration work the council of the board proposed to have an agent at some of the eastern fair at a cost of $400, and to keep a man at the Calgary fair at a cost of $700. Larger and more commodious offices would have to be found for this year's work and the cost of rent alone would run at least $1000. A sum of $15 will have to be spent in office furniture and the salary of the secretary, out of

FURNITURE STOCK BURNED

Edmonton Furniture Co. a Heavy Loser by Last Night's Blaze

A brief but very damaging fire occurred at 11 o'clock last night in the warehouse of the Edmonton Furniture Co., at the rear of the Jones & Mitchell building, Jasper avenue, by which damage to the extent of somewhere close to $5000 was done in a few minutes.

The warehouse is owned by Garlepy & Lessard and has been used for some time as a storage by the Edmonton Furniture Co. for goods not required in their display stock. The value of the goods stored was something over $5,000. A large part of which were destroyed by fire and all the remainder damaged by water.

The cause of the fire is a mystery which Messrs. Reid and McLellan of the Edmonton Furniture Co. cannot solve. The last man in the building was the warehouseman, who locked up at 5 o'clock and left everything in good order. No one had access to the warehouse from that time until the alarm was sounded.

The brigade answered the call briskly and Chief Wilson's men did a fast and effective piece of fire fighting, getting the blaze under control in a remarkably short time considering the nature of the combustibles.

Coming at the present time, when the spring rush is on, and all the eastern factories are filled up with orders, the fire will be a great inconvenience and a loss beyond the value of the goods to the Edmonton Furniture people.

The stock was insured to the extent of $3,500. Garlepy & Lessard had the building insured to the extent of $400, which covers the damage.

THE CITY COUNCIL DOES NOT WANT PUBLICITY

Bulletin Gets a Roast For Publishing Proceedings of Secret Meeting—Council Approves Action of Secretary by Casting Vote of the Mayor

HARGREAVES RE-ENGAGED AT AN ADVANCE OF $200

City Engineer to Work Under Him Will Be Paid $3,000 a Year—Alderman Mays Fights Alone Against the Appointments

There were few dull moments in last night's meeting of the city council and that a warm time was expected was evident by the fact that the sign "Standing Room Only" was out early in the evening. The council chamber was crowded and every available seat occupied, while quite a number stood up through the whole proceedings. Ald. Mays went down fighting alone on the city engineer question and the Bulletin came in for a roast at the hands of the mayor for prying into the affairs of the secret meeting of the council on Thursday evening.

When the communication from the Bulletin was reached, requesting the secretary-treasurer to produce the minutes and report of the council proceedings at the alleged secret meeting, the council divided evenly on the matter, and the action of the secretary was approved by the casting vote of the mayor. Those who voted in favor of publicity were Ald. Mays, Latta and Griesebach. Those who voted against were Ald. Bellamy, Smith and Manion.

A resolution was then passed leaving it to the bylaws and special legislation committee to frame a new set of rules of order to supplement or supersede those of the bylaw already in force. On the city engineer question, by the vote of the whole council except Ald. Mays, the City Engineer Hargreaves was retained as chief commissioner of public works and provision was made for the employment of a city engineer to work under him at a salary of $3,000 a year, applications to be made not later than the 15th of April.

The matter of publicity came up in the regular order of business, under the head of communications. When the Bulletin letter was reached, the secretary-treasurer said that there was one communication which, a though not addressed to the city council, still referred to a matter which they would no doubt all be interested in, and he therefore read the letter.

Commissioner Kinnaird said that he told the reporter of the Bulletin at the time that the committee of the whole had not reported, and that until a report was placed before the council that he would not give anything for publication, nor would he give anything out to the public.

The mayor said that while the commissioner had accepted the entire responsibility for suppressing the report, he did not do it on his own responsibility; he had conferred about the matter and had decided that it was not wise that the proceedings of the meeting should be made known to the public.

Alderman Bellamy said that he was surprised that the proceedings of a committee of the whole should be made public in any manner; that he had read in the Bulletin this next day an accurate account of what had transpired in the committee of the whole meeting the night before, and he considered that it showed that some alderman or party present had divulged the information with regard to the meeting before the council had had time to report.

City Solicitor Beck was asked by Alderman Mays for the legal status of the matter. Mr. Beck said that he had met the city commissioner on the street shortly after the Bulletin had made its demand for information and he had told Mr. Kinnaird off-hand that he thought that he was within his rights in refusing to divulge the minutes of committee meetings, in which connection he cited the fact that it had been done on several previous occasions. He said that there had been committee meetings before when it had been agreed by all hands that the work of the committee should not be made public, and that the proceedings of such meetings had not been disclosed. On looking the matter up, he found, he said, that the whole thing hinged on what was to be considered a "reasonable time." It was not unreasonable, he said, that the proceedings of committees should be held until the next meeting of the council. On this basis, he believed that the secretary-treasurer was within his rights in refusing to give information.

Ald. Mays said: "I think if I remember rightly, that the meeting was called by a special meeting of the city council."

Mayor Mays: "We met as a council meeting and resolved ourselves into a special committee at once."

Ald. Mays: "Are there any rules and regulations as to whether reporters and the public are allowed to attend committee meetings?"

Solicitor Beck said that he did not know what would be the legal interpretation of that question.

Ald. Latta: "If the charter does not allow committee of the whole meetings, then the charter does not allow the public interest and should be amended." He stated that he had a very distinct recollection of several meetings in which the interests of the city might have been prejudiced by the report of the proceedings being made public.

Ald. Bellamy moved that the action of the secretary-treasurer in refusing the information be approved by the council. Ald. Smith seconded the motion.

Ald. Griesebach moved in amendment that the Bulletin letter be received and filed. Ald. Mays seconded Ald. Griesebach's amendment. A vote was called for and Ald. Latta voted a tie vote. The mayor declared the amendment lost on his casting vote, and the motion was put and carried in the same way.

Ald. Mays then asked if there were any regular rules of order which the council was bound to follow.

The mayor said that there was precedent and common sense. That rules of order were always a matter more of custom than of anything else.

Ald. Griesebach said that there were rules of order that had been adopted by bylaw and that they were law and should be followed; that the council was bound to follow them. He cited the bylaw as No. 43, passed in 1893.

Mayor Mays said that there should be a committee appointed to draft up a set of rules of order that would be more up to date.

Ald. Griesebach said, "Before any committee is appointed I would like to ask the committee if the powers of the council are wide enough under the charter to allow them to make the public order which would exclude the public or order which would include the public."

Solicitor Beck did not answer Ald. Griesebach's question directly. He said that the matter of publicity, in his opinion, depended on the interpretation of the ordinance "Reasonable time."

Alderman Griesebach pointed out that the charter itself contained no such thing as committees, and that it was a question as to whether committees could have any legal existence under the charter.

Alderman Mays moved that the mayor appoint a committee to draft up a set of rules of order and that the same be submitted to the council for ratification.

Alderman Latta moved in amendment that the commissioner be instructed to prepare a set of rules of order. Neither motion was seconded, and the city solicitor pointed out that according to the amendments which are before the legislature, there was a clause which stated that the procedure of the council shall not be changed except when concurred in by the whole council.

Alderman Macdonald moved that the matter of framing a set of rules of order for the guidance of the council be left to the committee on by-laws and special legislation. His motion was seconded by Alderman Smith, and the motion was carried without dissent.

This disposed of the publicity business for the present and the council proceeded to other business.

The report of the committee of the whole was next taken up.

This following is the report of the Friday evening meeting which was refused to the Bulletin:

SPECIAL MEETING

Report of Council proceedings in Committee of the whole at Special Meeting on 23rd March, 1906.

1 That the Board of Commissioners remain as in 1905.

2 That the salary of the Mayor as Commissioner be $1,200.00 for 1906.

3 That the salary of Commissioner Kinnaird for 1906 be $1,800.00 with $500.00 additional for the office of Secretary-Treasurer—$2,000.00 in all.

4 That the salary of Commissioner Hargreaves be $2,000.00 for 1906.

5 That the Commissioners be collectively and not individually responsible for all actions of the Board unless any special action be protested against by a minority report from one of its number laid before the council.

6 That an assessor be appointed at a salary of $1,200.00 per annum, his duties to be defined by the Board of Commissioners.

7 That a collector be appointed at a salary of $60.00 per month to be appointed by and receive instructions from the Commissioners.

8 That a city engineer be appointed at a salary of $2,000.00 per annum and that a thoroughly qualified man be advertised for, applications to be received up to 17th April 1906.

9 That a plumbing inspector be engaged at a salary of $35.00 per month to be appointed and instructed by the Commissioners.

10 That a competent inspector be engaged to supervise the laying of cement sidewalks and such other duties of inspection as the Commissioners may determine when such work is in progress.

11 That a practically and experienced fire chief be engaged at a salary of $100.00 per month to act also as building and nuisance inspector and that the present chief be retained at the present salary of $75.00 per month as an understanding with the title of Captain or assistant chief to act also as

LEGISLATURE TRANSACTS MUCH IMPORTANT WORK

Many Bills Advanced a Stage Yesterday Afternoon—A Forecast of Legislation to Come

Yesterday's proceedings in the Legislature were purely technical and devoted exclusively to the advancement of bills framed from the Ordinances of the Territories and adopted with little change for use as the statutes of Alberta. A whole string of bills were advanced as stage without debate of any kind except in regard to clause 4 of Bill No. 15, entitled "A Bill respecting the transfer and descent of land," which is the land titles act of Alberta, the Dominion, as has been used in the territories for many years. Clause 4 provides that no woman whose husband has died on or after the first day of January, 1877, shall be entitled to dower in the land of her deceased husband; but shall have the same right in such land as if it were personal property.

Mr. Stuart, of Gleichen rose to ask the House if they were aware that this paragraph made it possible for a man, by the provisions of his will to will his property away from his wife entirely, and that she had no recourse under the law. He stated that he did not want to go back to the old and cumbersome system of dower, but he thought that in making the law that some provision should be made to protect the women of the country from such a possible action. He mentioned that the matter had been discussed and resolutions passed thereon by women's clubs throughout the country, and that the same had been forwarded to the government.

Mr. Rosenroll, said in reply that dower was being abolished in all progressive countries nowadays, and that there must be some good and sufficient reason why this was the case. He pointed out that under the law as it stands now that a woman has the same rights to acquire and retain property as a man has, and he said that if the dower worked with regard to the women he could see no reason why it should not be made to work the other way as well. He thought that the one was just as sensible as the other. Furthermore, he said that in his fifteen years experience as a resident of Alberta he had not yet heard of one single case where the provision objected to by the member for Gleichen was signed as a hardship.

John R. Boyle stated briefly that he agreed with Mr. Stuart, and while he was not favorable to the dower system he thought that some provision should be made to protect the women in their rights in the estate.

John T. Moore stated that the intent and purpose of the land act was to make the transfer of land as simple and easy as possible, and that if any provisions were put in the land act which would have the effect of destroying this simplicity, it would frustrate the purpose of the bill and have the effect of materially decreasing the value of the land itself. He said that he recognized the rights of the women in the matter but he charged the House to consider the fact that they were touching a very sensitive question.

Mr. Telford, of Leduc said that when the law provided that a husband might will away his property without any regard to the rights of his wife that it was time for the House to take action to set the matter right.

The bill was passed up to the select committee who will report on it. The following are the other bills that were advanced to-day:

No. 1. For second reading, "A Bill respecting the Treasury Department and Auditing of Public Accounts."

No. 5. For second reading, "A Bill respecting Sheriffs and Deputy Sheriffs."

No. 6. For second reading, "A Bill respecting Commissioners to Administer Oaths."

No. 7. For second reading, "A Bill respecting Chief Magistrates and Justices of the Peace."

No. 8. For second reading, "A Bill respecting Notaries Public."

The Bulletin's Daily Budget From the Sister Town

Strathcona, Mar. 26.—A debate was held in the Baptist church this evening under the auspices of the B.Y.P.U. Subject—Resolved that the advance of civilization increases the sum of human happiness. Messrs. J. P. Sommers and G. W. Nightingale, supported the affirmative, while the negative was represented by Messrs. Chas. Grant, D. Currie and Miss Ritchie. Many good arguments were presented by the different speakers and much interest shown by the large audience present. The judges were Rev. Grant, Mr. McKerricker and Miss Beaton, who gave their decision in favor of the negative.

Mr. Ed. Lyne of Medford, Ont., who has been for about one year in Alberta and for about eight months with Gainer & Sons, butchers, left this morning for Wetaskiwin to take charge of the wholesale and retail business there, there, lately carried on by Ferris & Co. The Gainer firm have lately acquired this business and Mr. Lyne is the new manager.

A largely attended meeting was held last night in the Presbyterian church in the interests of the Christian Endeavor Society. Miss Blain read a very interesting paper on missionary work in India, which was much appreciated. The following officers were elected for the C. E. Society for the ensuing six months:—President, Miss Thorsen; Vice-President, Mr. John Atkins; Secretary, Miss G. Rogers; Treasurer, Miss Kirt. Various other committees were also elected. Present indications seem to show that the Presbyterian C. E. Society will have a prosperous year in Strathcona.

Mr. Andrew Cluff, Sr., father of W. J. Cluff of Strathcona, came in town on yesterday afternoon's train. He left Greenfield on the Canadian Atlantic Railway, last Thursday. He reports a heavy snow storm at his old home. He is now 89 years of age and is still hale and hearty. His great age and long journey necessary, were not sufficient to prevent him coming up to see his children and Sunny Alberta.

THE COUNCIL SHARES THE BLAME

The city council last night by the narrowest possible vote confirmed the action of the Secretary in suppressing information regarding the secret session of that body held on Friday evening. Unfortunately for the council, their action, while mitigating in no degree the offence of the official in question, makes the aldermen concerned participants in that offence. That the council can have no power to authorize an employee to act contrary to the provisions of the city charter or to justify an employee for so acting should be sufficiently clear. That the action of the Secretary was contrary to the wording of the charter is indirectly confirmed by the city solicitor, who would only express a doubt that the term "reasonable time" might be construed or applied to suit the convenience of the case. That the action was contrary to the spirit and purpose of the charter there can be no reasonable doubt. In upholding the Secretary, therefore, the council have made themselves parties to the violation of letter and spirit of the charter for the purpose of shielding an offending employee.

THE CRITICS OF A PRINCESS

The Toronto press is mightily displeased that Princess Rita of Battenberg has transferred her allegiance to the Roman Catholic church in order to marry the King of Spain. Declining with scant courtesy to admit the religious affairs of the lady as her own exclusive business, these journals read long lectures on the infamy of deserting one's early faith. The critics, however, appear to have overlooked the trifling circumstance that the young lady may be, and probably is, in love, in which case stranger things than a change of religion have occurred. For ourselves, we pin our faith to this discarded theory, and regard the sacrifice of the Princess rather a proof of her affection than an evidence of her capriciousness. Considering the deplorable condition of the Spanish throne, it does not appear reasonable that a young lady with normal sense would exchange denominational relationships for the privilege of occupying the smaller half of that unstable and exceedingly uncomfortable seat. No, the Princess is in love, and the proof of it is that she sacrifices her religious associations and will even occupy the throne of Spain for the sake of her choice. Add to this the fact that she is a lady whose religious convictions did not outweigh the attractions of the court at Madrid, and little loss to the dominion she left and little gain to that she joined.

IMPUGNING A WRONG MOTIVE

In the course of a lengthy review of the local G.T.P. situation, the Strathcona Chronicle says:—
Briefly the position is, that the city of Edmonton desires that the G.T.P. sidetrack Strathcona by running into the city via Clover Bar. Edmonton through much the larger and the temporary capital of the province, recognizes, or rather, covets Strathcona's excellent position as a distributing centre, and rears her in the commercial world, and is exerting every effort to have its rival city crowded out of corporation. Strathcona, on the other hand, feels the injustice of being eclipsed by any one of the three great railway terminal railways that are based in this portion of Alberta, just to enable the commercial interests of Edmonton.

The Chronicle is possessed of a very high opinion of being one-sided with its altogether mistaken notion of the attitude which determines Edmonton's attitude toward the route of the G.T.P. into this city. This attitude is and should be determined not by the considerations of whether or not the route selected will benefit or injure neighboring towns but whether that route will bring the line into Edmonton from a direction which will avoid unduly crowding up the more congested portions of the city while permitting the establishment of terminal facilities conveniently near the business and residential sections. In the question of whether or not Strathcona shall be located on the main line of the G.T.P., Edmonton is interested by the obligations of neighborliness and by considerations of the general welfare of the community, but in the question of whether the new line shall traverse a comparatively congested and valuable section of this city in reaching its terminal facilities is a matter not of indirect or secondary but of direct and great interest to the residents of this city. In acknowledging the importance of this question to their city and in seeking to solve it in the best interests of the city, Edmonton people are fulfilling a primary duty of citizenship deserving rather the emulation than the criticism of their neighbors. And if in seeking the welfare of their own city the people of Edmonton express an opinion on a question which touches the welfare of a neighboring town, they at least do not merit attack on the ground of striking at the commercial prospects of their neighbors. Edmonton does not believe that Strathcona's purpose in working to secure the G.T.P. crossing is for the injury of Edmonton, but for the benefit of Strathcona and the Chronicle might be fair enough to admit that Edmonton's purpose is not to knife Strathcona, but to conserve her own interests. The theory that one community prospers by the ruin of another is a mistake and a mistake so commonly admitted that it is never advanced in plain statement. Yet this is the supposition on which the doctrine of the commercial hostility of Strathcona to Edmonton is founded. The sooner this doctrine is piled on the scrap heap with the discarded remnants of the erroneous and the impulsive of wrong motives will cease and the communities join hands in working for the advancement and development of a country large enough and rich enough to fulfill the legitimate aspirations of both.

THE LEGISLATURE

No. 10. For second reading, "A Bill respecting Clerks and Deputy Clerks."
No. 11. For second reading, "A Bill respecting 'Dept' of Agriculture."

No. 12. For second reading, "A Bill respecting 'Dept' Provincial Secretary."

The following are the purposes of some of the bills that are now before the House:

THE CORONERS ACT

This contains the usual provisions in such acts and is intended to amend the provisions of the act that the Province now has charge of administration of the Criminal law.

To prevent abuse of power, for the purpose of earning fees as in the case in some Provinces it is provided that the coroner before calling a jury must swear that from information received he has reason to suspect foul play.

Excepting for the above restriction on the coroners right to hold an inquest it is practically the same as that of the other Provinces and sections copied from one Province and some from another.

PUBLIC SERVICE ACT

Divides the Service into Departments and empowers the head of each department respectively, to be the Minister in charge. Exemptions from this rule are the provincial auditor and clerk of the legislative assembly. Clerk of assembly is appointed by order of council and cannot be removed except for cause. By reason of the same an act of the House for so removing.

Appointments to civil service to be on six months' probation and not to continue except on certificate of head of department that party is competent. Two divisions inside service including the staffs of the departments.

An application for an increase of salary is to be considered as a resignation.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S ACT

This is the usual statute in such cases. It defines the duties and powers of the Attorney-General. Briefly they are as follows:

1. Advising the Crown in all matters of law.
2. Advising the Legislative Assembly in all matters of law.

3. Enforcing the legal rights of the Crown and issuing of writs permitting the Crown to be made defendant in a suit.

4. Enforcing the criminal law.

THE SHERIFFS ACT

This is the usual statute. It provides for a sheriff for each judicial district and appointments of deputy sheriffs. Provides for security to be given for faithful performance of duty.

Provides proper keeping of record of writs and other process and an annual return to the government.

ACT RESPECTING THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

The usual act in such cases gives the departments briefly the following powers and duties:

1. To institute enquiries and collect statistics regarding agriculture and to disseminate information regarding same.

2. Attend matters re public health.

3. To collect all kinds of data as to the province.

ACT RESPECTING PROVINCIAL SECRETARY

Usual statute in such cases. The provincial secretary is to be given the following powers and duties:

1. Keeper of the great seal of the province.

2. Keeper of all registers and archives, also of all state documents.

3. He signs all letters, patent commissions, etc., and seals same.

BOARD OF TRADE GETS GRANT.

which he has to pay his stenographer, will be $2,000.

Among the other items to be provided for is a matter of $240 to pay the expenses of the several delegates to the convention at Regina last year, $38 for membership in the Western Canadian Immigration Society, $123 for the expenses of the delegate to the W. C. L. A. $12 as the cost of carrying out the seed fair held in the city a few weeks ago, and an item of $200 for Sunday expenses, bringing the total amount up to $6,665. Against this they expected to raise something like $1,665 from membership fees, which are now $10 a year, and they ask the council to make a grant for the balance, to the extent of $5,000.

Mr. Cushing pointed out that the demand was by no means unreasonable, as many cities and towns throughout the west had given as large and larger sums as they had had a very important work to carry on, it was necessary that this should be funded.

The particular object of their effort this year, he said, would be to promote new industries.

Mayor May said that he agreed that the demand was a very reasonable one and thought that it should be granted. He complimented Mr. Fisher on the work that he had done during the past year and he hoped that they would meet with equal success in carrying out the program of the present year.

The motion was put and carried unanimously.

ROMANCE IN BALGONIE

Balgownie, March 26.—Edith Gardiner nineteen years old, took a trip to Regina with J. J. Bentley, music teacher, Saturday. Bentley had been giving her lessons in music, and it is inferred from recent events that he had also coached her in love-making. The girl's father was out of town during that time Bentley was assiduous in his attentions. The latter told her father Saturday that she was going up town. She met Bentley and they went to Regina.

Regina, Mar. 26.—A runaway couple from Balgonie spent yesterday in Regina and applied fruitlessly to get local parents to legalize their union. They have since disappeared mysteriously. The theory of the police is that they boarded the west bound train.

FISHERY NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY.

Ottawa, March 26.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier made two important statements in the House to-day. The first was that the whole question of fisheries in waters contiguous to the United States was now the subject of negotiation between the United States and the Imperial authorities. There were no negotiations between the Imperial authorities and the United States on subjects under the consideration of the Waterways Committee. Sir Wilfrid Laurier also said that Canada had offered the United States reciprocity in the coasting trade, but so far the offer had not been received by our neighbors favorably.

Hon. F. Oliver introduced a bill to provide for forestry reserves in the Northwest.

The Magnetic North West

By Cy Warman in "Canada."

"I hear the tread of pioneers,
Of nations yet to be;
The first low hush of waves where Soon
Shall roll a human sea."

It is now six years since an American magazine writer wrote an article for the New York Review of Reviews, under the heading, "Why do they trek?" That was the first news of the New Empire to cause the press and the people of the Republic to sit up and take notice. It came as a mild shock to Americans, this fact that hundreds of farmers in the middle west were selling the old farms, upon which many of them had been reared, and buying new homes or homesteads in the houseless prairies of the Canadian Northwest.

It was something new and novel to see men moving out of the states, into which the tide of immigration was flowing in a ceaseless and ever-flowing stream. If this troubled and often unsanitary stream had flowed on across the continent and emptied into the Dominion it would have mattered little, but it did not. It spread out and drained into cities, as the water of a new irrigating canal seek the swales, was swallowed and became part of the Republic.

And while this annual army of European immigrants was being put through the crucible, melted, moulded and made into American citizens, the best blood of the native-born agriculturists was passing over the boundary to the British possessions.

America, as the republic is, and should be called, was taking the raw material—the crude ore from the mines of humanity, and giving Canada the finished product.

The Press comments upon the article referred to caused other magazines to send men and see for themselves and to write of the "American invasion" of Canada. They came and saw and confirmed the story of the trek. They saw the crude houses of the homesteaders dotting the prairie, as the first scattered drops that precede an April pour-down drench the dust in a country lane.

Many American newspapers openly deplored the movement that threatened to depopulate the Western States, but the more they deplored, the more man marvellous! It could be so, and the more they came to see for themselves. And as often as a man came, he became convinced of the richness of the soil, the productiveness of the prairies, and the fair prospect of the future held for this new land. Every satisfied settler became a landowner, almost always unconsciously, but always effectively. He wrote home of the abundant harvest, the cheapness of the land, and the peace and quiet of the community.

As the years passed, the stream of immigration swelled, until half a hundred thousand of the best farmers in America are crossing the line annually. They bring their tools, utensils, and in almost every instance a goodly wallet. They usually come up in the early spring, stake their claim, return to the States, harvest and thresh the crop, and then move north.

During the autumn they break and disc the wild land, and have it ready to seed the moment the snow and frost leave the ground. While the crop is growing they break more prairie, build outhouses and fence the farm.

When harvest time comes they reap the new fields, and so have transferred their families and effects from the States to Canada, without missing a harvest, and almost without realizing the fact that they have passed from the shelter of the Stars and Stripes to the equally substantial shelter of the Union Jack.

In the wake of the Yankee homesteader comes the Yankee investor, making another stream of settlers, as necessary to the development of the Dominion as are the tillers of the soil. If American capital has flowed more freely into Canada than British capital, it is because the former is less timid than the latter. The average American investor will take chances that seem unwarranted to the eye of the conservative capitalist of the old world. Sometimes this is to the Yankee's advantage, often it is his undoing. If the claim pans out well, he waxes wealthy. If it pinches, he perishes, but not utterly, from the earth. He goes down, to be sure, takes the benefit of the court, but never suffers himself to be crowded out.

In a country like Canada, in the growing time, where there is peace and plenty and prosperity, and a promise of at least a decade of unbroken boom, men make serious slips, and find their footing again almost without disturbing their bank accounts.

So far, for the past five or six years, it has been next to impossible for one to toes on land, or even town lots, bought with intelligence, as steady have been the upward climb of values. How long this condition will hold out, it is difficult to say. In the near future, when I can secure some fresh facts pertaining to the subject, I mean to write an article, in which I shall set forth the situation to the best of my ability. By taking the luring literature of the land companies, and the sad story of the Ontario investor who went "broke" in the premature boom of twenty years ago, and mixing the two with my own information and first-hand information, it ought to be an easy matter to make a composite picture very nearly true to life.

Of one thing the American Republic is convinced, and that is that the Canadian Northwest has passed the experimental stage. It is a fact, and will henceforth be a potent factor in the feeding of the world. The railways and large land companies interested in the south-western states are "viewing with alarm," the steady flow of political platforms, the trek to the north. Of their anxiety, and the methods employed to stay the tide I shall tell in a later issue. It has taken some time for these interests to realize the change that has come.

By the cradles of men who are moving out of the Republic their mothers sang, fifty years ago, that the old jingle with which the early settlers used to jolly the in-coming immigrants:

"Come along, come along,
Don't be alarmed;
For Uncle Sam is rich enough
To give us all a farm."

They sing that song no more in America. The States are filling up, and so far as free lands go, the story has been told. Uncle Sam is out of his upper "Canada" must be substituted for "Uncle Sam" in that old song.

I do not mean to say that the Republic's day is gone, but to state the undeniable fact that Canada's day is just now dawning. The year just closed has been a prosperous one, but the present year will, in all probability, be greater in all that makes for the upbuilding of the Dominion.

I see no reason why it should be otherwise, for only a garden spot has been broken in the boundless fields of the far Northwest. Only a handful of settlers have settled so far, when one comes to consider the resources and to measure the immensity of that long neglected land of promise. But this last west will fill rapidly, now that the world is coming to know about it. It is the end of the Rainbow, the last atop of the Star of Empire in its westward march, for it is the end of the west.

Pioneering is not all sunshine, especially in the somewhat severe climate; but if the hardships seem greater here, the reward is also greater, for there are no lands to be had for the taking anywhere under the sun, that will produce as much per acre as will the western plains and the great Saskatchewan valley. This is of a truth a land of promise.

An encouraging feature about this new community that is building out in the Northwest is the fact that the first settlement was made where the soil was most stubborn, and the climatic conditions most severe. I refer to the rich and fertile fields of Manitoba. Even there, under innumerable disadvantages, not to mention the blight and burden of a "busted boom" the pioneer has made good.

And now, as the settlement is to the west, even to the north-west, to Saskatchewan and Alberta, the climatic conditions are less severe.

When you arrive at the Battleford district, even at Saskatoon, you begin to feel the moderating effects of the climate, winds that come crowding in over the Coast Range and the Rockies to temper the cold and make habitable thousands of square miles of prairie, for otherwise would be un-occupied in months in the year. As far north as Saskatoon, cattle and horses range in the open the year round, with open sheds for the calves and colts only. And, as the country fills up, as the wild lands are broken, the climate changes, the frost goes out earlier and stays out later, and so the mean temperature is reduced, the winds blow warmer, and world grows brighter from year to year.

AN ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

A public meeting to organize an athletic Association will be held in Sandison Hall on Monday evening next. Everybody is invited to be present, provided they will come with enough active interest in the sports question to make the meeting enthusiastic and come with the object in view of forming an association that will provide Edmonton with a line of summer sports and organize teams that will make other towns and cities along the line green with envy.

The business men of the city are being handed a special invitation to the meeting. It is to the business men that the summer sports bunch are looking for support in several things. One of these is the procuring of grounds for athletic purposes, grounds that will be fenced in with seven foot planks and no openings between, grounds that will be looked after and kept nice and clean and in shape for the boys to play ball upon.

At the meeting held in the Imperial Hotel some time ago, Mr. Sawie, of the Imperial Bank, who acted as secretary for the evening, was asked to correspond with the secretary of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, and procure a copy of their constitution. The constitution has arrived, and on Monday evening will be discussed at the meeting and an association formed along the lines suggested by it.

Nearly all of the old lacrosse boys are here and some new ones have wandered in during the past few weeks, so there will be a good bunch to choose from when it comes to picking up a team. There is Garnet Morris, who played last year, Percy Glass, "Billy" McQueen, Blavett, Blomander, "Gladly" Thompson, Will Banford, Willie Harris Watkins, and Sawie. Of the new lads there is Shanks, of the Bank of Hamilton, who is an old hand in the flag, J. Lisk, who was across the river last year, Neil and Mr. Pinch, of Pendennis, who was a slick-handler of the old 9th Regt. aggregation in Winnipeg.

And the baseball boys are by no means in the minority. Vincent, an old pitcher of last year, is still around and eager for the game. His battery partner, Castor, is gone, however, but he has Dobson to step in. Then there is Carson, from Virden, and Denton, Maloney, "Billy" Ingles, Doc Till, S. Boyd, who in a new arrival from Calgary, and Harry Miller.

The Lacrosse Club will organize next week. The Football Club will organize Thursday night, and the baseball boys will not be far behind. The Cricket Club is already organized.

ORGAN RECITAL

The inaugural recital and dedication of the new pipe organ of McDougall church last evening was attended by an audience fully appreciative of the musical treat they received. The auditorium was crowded to the doors, and the first pipe organ to be heard in Edmonton was duly opened and dedicated by Mr. Frank Wrigley, L.A.B., of Calgary, who is probably the most talented organist that has visited the Northwest.

The new organ is a magnificent one. It occupies almost the entire organ loft, and is of imposing appearance, the pipes being of a beautiful golden tint. Mr. Wrigley, although a stranger in Edmonton, was greeted heartily upon his appearance.

His first solo, "Overture in E minor," was a selection which brought out the full range of the instrument, from the sweetest treble note to the full rich bass and pedal stops. It was quite operatic in effect, beginning with full orchestra interpolated with light catchy airs.

With the first grand burst of music from the instrument, Mr. Wrigley held the audience enraptured. His second selection, "Andantino No. 1," was equally enjoyed and he was encored.

Mrs. Bennett, Jackson Hanby and C. W. Wille were introduced and sang the beautiful trio from Haydn's "Creation," "On These Each Living Soul Awakes," which well pleased the audience.

Mr. Wrigley then rendered "Reve Angeli," from Rubenstein, and the superb "Overture to Traviata," and the audience demanded another encore in "Reve Angeli." It is a tone portrait descriptive of a famous Russian water-lily place, the scene lying under the witchery of moonlight.

Mrs. Bennett, who is enjoyed best in oratorio, sang the solo, "With Venture Glad," from Haydn's "Creation." A selection by Mr. Wrigley which became popular with the audience was "Mignon Gavotte," and he repeated it on being heartily applauded.

A dainty little air, composed by himself, entitled "A Little Ode," was gratefully enjoyed.

Jackson Hanby sang the solo "In Native Worth," from Haydn's "Creation." One of Mr. Wrigley's most beautiful selections, was the "Spring Song" by Mendelssohn. In this one he hears the soft murmurings of brooks, the chirp of birds, and the lap of leaves and rippling of rain.

Howard Stutchbury, the popular oratorio soloist, sang "It is Enough," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and for an encore rendered "Lord, God of Abraham," from the same oratorio.

ENGINEER'S DEFENCE

Letter Addressed to the City Council
In Which Mr. Hargreaves Explains His Case

The Mayor and Council, City of Edmonton.

Gentlemen—Before the Council decide on the question of dividing the offices of Commissioner and City Engineer now held by myself I would like to make some statement in regard to the desire of a section of ratepayers for my resignation.

The agitation made by this section has been carefully fostered I understand by contractors for sewer work done during the year. It is unfortunate that citizens do not seem to understand the energy which these parties have used with a view to getting rid of an engineer who has acted and cared for no other interests but those of the ratepayers.

The incident of parts of Jasper avenue sidewalks showing bad work is of course made much of and it has been said that an engineer should be employed who has some knowledge of concrete work. Now I think I have been connected with concrete work in England and in Winnipeg ever since its use came so largely into vogue and I have been responsible for the successful carrying out of very large amounts of concrete works; it is a great disappointment to have any bad work in your walks but the contractor promises to have the whole of the bad places made good as quickly as possible after commencement of the working season. In connection with this work I must point out how the job was rushed so that the city main street should have finished appearance at the time of the Provincial inauguration. The city obtained much credit far and wide for the general layout and appearance of the streets. I wish to refer to the quantities and value of work done by the Engineer's Department during the last season: Sewer and water mains over 10 miles in all.

New grading, 4 miles.
Concrete walks, 2 miles.
Plank walks, 8 miles.
Besides the usual routine work.

The arc light system was also installed during the year and is equal to the best in Canada.

I may say the total expenditure of the season approximated $180,000 all under charge of one engineer.

In all your previous existence as a municipality you have scarcely had more work done though you employed a designing engineer, a resident engineer and your own city engineer with inspectors. The carpenter citizens, who know not what they do, give no credit for all this nor do I desire any. It has been simply done in the ordinary way of carrying out the duties which I had undertaken to perform.

The argument which certain parties made because certain progress estimates were not an absolutely correct indication of the amount of work done on some sewer contracts and that therefore I was an incompetent engineer has been shown to be ridiculous. I have held back monies surely until work is satisfactorily done and this is a great cause of the agitation which has arisen against me, aldermen as well as citizens generally should appreciate this.

The tower has been complained of. Commenced in the late fall it has been impossible to complete the cement work during the winter; the unsatisfactory bell which has delayed the completion of the belfry and roof has been taken back by the contractor. The construction of the tower is simply of the modern lines of concrete construction and has already withstood as much strain as is likely to be brought to bear upon it.

I would like to point out that since assuming my position besides regular engineering work already enumerated a Building Inspector's Department has been established with its important records, latterly also the Sanitary Department, until very recently you have had absolutely no method of sanitary record. In connection with this department a scavenging system is commenced which when in full working, will place Edmonton easily first. In this respect in the Dominion. A very large sewerage system for the whole remaining part of the city is being figured upon and work is in hand on systems of street improvement and boulevards.

Petitions have commenced to come in in considerable numbers which indicate that large works of this nature together with opening up of new streets, grading and sidewalk construction will be required in volume comparing with the experience of the most progressive cities with which one has been connected.

I wish as Commissioner respectfully to express my opinion that the office of chief engineer should still be held by a Commissioner, such duties to be appointed by the Commissioners as may be considered necessary and I cannot admit that there is any just reason for my supersession in the manner which is proposed.

(Signed) J. H. HARGREAVES

Fertile Farm Lands Near Alberta's Capital

Leduc, 20 miles south of Edmonton, on the C. & E. Railway, is noted for its rich agricultural lands, and large production of wheat and oats, of first-class quality. Cattle-raising and dairying are also important industries and large quantities of butter and eggs are marketed at this point. The country is partly wooded, and there are large coal deposits in the district; also abundance of water at from 12 to 30 feet in depth. There are numerous lakes, one being partly within the town limits. Fish and game are plentiful.

Homestead lands may be obtained at a distance of 20 miles from town. Other lands range from 16 to 540 an acre. The town itself numbers upwards of 400 inhabitants, principally Canadians and Americans, and is now applying for incorporation. Among the business establishments are a chartered bank, 3 grain elevators, 2 grain warehouses, creamery, pork-packing houses, flour mill, planing mill, general stores, hardware stores, also hotels, and 5 churches. Telegraph and telephone systems.

Cattle marketed in 1905, 600.
Hogs, 7000.
Coal, 1000 tons.
Butter, 150,000 pounds.

—Plainsdealer: To a Strathcona gentleman General Manager Whyte, of the C. P. R. said the other day that the company hopes to complete the building of their high level bridge during this year. The means immense activity on the part of the bridge company to whom the contract may be awarded.

At St. Joachim's R. C. church on Sunday evening a meeting of the east and parishioners was held to discuss the erection of a church in their end of the city. A committee of four was appointed, who interviewed Bishop Legal and Rev. Father Hetu, and it was decided to build as soon as possible. The committee were instructed to procure a site and make other arrangements.

—The Firth-ton Concert Co. appeared in Robertson's hall on Monday evening before a goodly audience. The entertainment fully sustained the high reputation which preceded them. The company will doubtless be welcomed by a large house should they return to the city. Mr. Eaton is an impersonator of musical merit and his selections kept the audience in roars of laughter. Miss Jackson possesses a sweet soprano voice and her solos elicited several encores. Mr. Firth's baritone songs were much appreciated and the duet by Miss Jackson and Mr. Firth was especially pleasing.

—F. J. Marshall, J. O'Connor, and A. Campbell, came in last night on the C. N. R. from Delnorte, and are guests at the Penitents. They are here on business and are incidentally taking up the city and its surroundings. Delnorte, where these gentlemen hail from, is on the line of the C. N. R., twenty-five miles east of Vegreville, the name of the station being Inisfree. Although a handsome new depot has been built, as yet there is no agent in charge, and the farmers are also without a mail service. The land around Delnorte is being taken up rapidly, and although the townsite has not yet been surveyed there is every promise of the rise of a thriving town at this station.

The Juvenile Bostonians, who are playing up the Edmonton branch this week, after a week's stay in Calgary, where they did a capacity business, will reach the city on Sunday, and commence a week's engagement in Robertson's Hall on Monday. There are 23 children in the company, ranging in ages from four to fourteen, and the company carries a school teacher and a dancing teacher. The little entertainers have a repertoire of five operas, of which they will produce "The Gipsy Girl," on the opening night.

The company carries all its own scenery and is in a position to put their productions on in a manner, befitting the well-known talent of the Juvenile Bostonians. Seats are on sale at Archibald's.

Mrs. Kenneth entertained a number of young people last night at her home on Fifth street. Music and cards made the evening pass very enjoyably.

Mrs. C. W. Cross entertained a large circle of friends between four and six yesterday afternoon. The dainty hostess looked perfectly charming in a pale grey voile effect trimmed with applique and lace. A pretty and unique arrangement of white tulips over white satin with graceful bow of green satin graced the centre of the dining room table, on which rested a silver fern pot filled with bright daffodils. Four silver candlesticks with pale yellow shades gave a finish to the artistically arranged table. A beautiful yellow embroidered shade over the opalescent light from which dropped golden daffodils added materially to the effect of the whole. Mrs. McQueen and Mrs. Dawson presided over the table the last hour and were relieved the second hour by Mrs. Turnbull and Mrs. Mowat. Mrs. Thibideau had charge of the tea at a side table. Those assisting were Mesdames Wallbridge, Lyons and Woods. Among those present were Mesdames Bulyea, Constanline, McKenzie, (Macdon), Walker (Fort Saskatchewan), Cushing (Calgary), Roy, Miss Cushing, and many others.
